Nationwide - Stephen A. Tillett, Anne Arundel County, Maryland NAACP Branch President, political activist, and interfaith clergy leader can now add national best-selling author to his list of credits. His first book, Stop Falling for the Okeydoke: How the Lie of "Race" Continues to Undermine Our Country [iUniverse; 978-1-5320-1-9; $15.99; paperback], released on May 25, 2017, became the #4 national best-seller for non-fiction. Books can be purchased today through his company Connecting-The-Dots-LLC at www.Connecting-The-Dots-LLC.com, through iUniverse, at www.iUniverse.com, or Amazon at www.Amazon.com.

Tillett believes we are living in a critical time in our nation's history, a time where people of like interests must come together for their common good, lest we all be overrun by the "Corporate States of America." The lie—the okeydoke of "race"—has kept people of common concern separated for far too long. Genetically, we are all 99.9% the same. We must begin to act like it.
